GEN. DIAZ TO START REVOLT

Belief in Washington That
He is Planning to Fight
Pres. Carranza

LEFT THIS COUNTRY BY WAY OF HAVANA

The State of Oaxaca Has Never Accepted Carranza's Rule, and It Is Expected That Diaz Will Inaugurate His Movement There.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29. — Confirmation of reports that Gen. Felix Diaz had left the United States for Mexico to start a new revolution was received yesterday at the department of justice from several different quarters.

Gen. Diaz left New Orleans Friday or Havana, where several Mexicans whose names have been associated with his in reports of a revolutionary movement were understood to be waiting him. Teodoro Dehesa, a former governor of Vera Cruz, and General Aureliano Blanquet, war minister under Huerta, were reported to be among them.

Although Diaz eluded the federal agents detailed to watch him, department of justice officials said last night that since no evidence warranting his arrest had been found and as he left the country, according to reports, as a private citizen of Mexico and not as leader of any organized revolutionary movement, nothing probably could have been done to detain him.

Gen. Diaz, a nephew of the former Mexican president of that name, has been absent from Mexico since Huerta, whom he helped establish in power, sent him abroad on a diplomatic mission. Most of this time he has spent in the United States and, although he is suspected of being connected with a revolutionary plot for which Huerta and several others were indicted, no direct evidence against him ever developed.

Oaxaca, where Diaz is expected to launch his movement, is the only state that has held aloof during the fighting of the last two years. It is reported that the people declared their independence of all factions and Carranza and other leaders were told that the state would be glad to resume its place in the union whenever any one demonstrated that he had restored a stable central government.

After Carranza's recognition by the foreign governments he chose not to ally with the people of Oaxaca, however, demanding that they accept his government unconditionally. To enforce this demand military expeditions are being directed against the state and the state's army is said to be preparing to resist. It is toward his nucleus of organized resistance that Diaz is said to be moving, accompanied by Lee Christmas, an American widely known throughout Central America because of his participation in the Oaxaca enterprises.

With the Oaxaca forces as a basis, it is estimated that Diaz might marshal nearly 25,000 men, but they would be poorly equipped and almost without artillery. The new movement is not regarded by officials in Washington as seriously menacing Carranza's government because they doubt Diaz's ability to establish himself as a popular leader or to obtain sufficient funds. They admit, however, that an organized revolution among the hills of southern Mexico, where a small band might hold out against vastly superior forces, would further complicate the already complex situation confronting the de facto president.

Although Carranza adherents profess to see in the presence at New York of Francisco de la Barra, once Mexican ambassador at Washington, he working out of the financial end of Diaz's plans, there has been no evidence that De la Barra has obtained any financial backing in the usual money sources of this country.
